

Maxwell

Wins Test Over 40 Cars

Result of the great Yale University Sheffield Scientific School Test. Of the forty automobiles tested at the famous Sheffield Scientific School laboratory the Maxwell stands first in economy of Gasoline consumption.

New Haven, Conn.

Gentlemen:-

I am enclosing report of test of your Maxwell automobile recently made in our laboratory.

I should like to add the following comments:

1. RELIABILITY OF TEST.

A preliminary test was made on April 19th, using a new car which was rather stiff. The showing was so good that we decided to make a second test. This was made on April 30th, using same car. On this test, the car showed less stiffness and the performance was better than on the first car. The second test was supervised by our most careful experts, and the results, I believe to be perfectly reliable.

2. MILEAGE.

The efficiency of the Maxwell automobile as indicated by the number of miles on a level road, is exceptionally high. This mileage record is better than that of any one of forty automobiles tested in our laboratory to date.

3. MOTOR PERFORMANCE.

The efficiency of the motor and carburetor as indicated by the pounds of gasoline used per hour per horse-power at rear tires, is exceedingly good, and indicates very perfect carburetor action over the whole range of speed and load. This record like that on mileage per gallon, is the best one that we have had.

Very truly yours,

E. H. Lockwood

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR MECHANICAL ENGINEERING.

Delegates Appointed.

Gov. McCreary has appointed the following delegates to represent Kentucky at the World's Court Congress, which will convene in Cleveland May 12, for a session of three days: Judge John F. Hager, of Ashland; Congressman Harvey Helm, Stanford; Congressman W. J. Fields, Mt. Olivet; Judge W. R. Shackelford, Richmond; George C. Webb and J. L. Watkins, Lexington; Gen. Bennett H. Young, Louisville; D. W. Wright, Bowling Green; Spaulding Grafton, Henderson, and W. T. Ellis, Owensboro.

Col. E. H. Taylor, of Frankfort, recently changed the name of his Hereford bull, Beau Perfection 24th, for which he paid $12,000, to Woodford, the name of the county in which his herd is located.

Dentists To Meet

The Kentucky State Dental Association will hold its 46th annual meeting at Ashland, Ky., June 8-9-10, which on account of being in the extreme north-eastern part of the State, bids fair to be the largest meeting ever held, as there will be many visitors from Ohio, Virginia and West Virginia.

A report of great interest in Republican politics is that Judge George D. Rellie has consented to head the Republican judicial ticket in Louisville.

This takes him out as a possibility for a State candidate, and is believed to leave E. P. Morrow a clear track for the gubernatorial nomination.

G. H. and S. J. Patterson, of Sonoma, Ky., sold three head of fat cattle averaging 1,200 pounds, in Cincinnati last week at $5.00 per hundred pounds.

They are 70 Years Old.

"For some time past my wife and myself were troubled with kidney trouble," writes T. B. Carpenter, Harrisburg, Pa. "We suffered rheumatic pains all through the body. The first few doses of Foley Kidney Pills relieved us. After taking five bottles between us, we are entirely cured. Although we are both in advanced years, we are as vigorous as we were thirty years ago." Foley Kidney Pills stop sleep disturbing bladder weakness, backache, rheumatism, dizziness, swollen joints and sore muscles. Sold every where.

FOR THE CARD TABLE

CLOTH OF ODD DESIGN IS MOST APPROPRIATE.

Tan Linen the Preferred Material, and Decorations May Be Stencil Work—Some Hints as to Appropriate Prizes.

Card playing is a winter pastime, and hostesses who welcome anything novel in connection with the game, I have in mind an odd-looking cloth for covering the card tables while playing, writes Helen Howe in the Washington Star.

Tan linen is the material, though any preferred plain fabric can be used. White should be avoided on account of soiling quickly, but wood browns, also greens and grays, would be effective. The tan linen is cut to fit the table, and is bound with red ribbon about one and one-half inches wide. The decoration is a row of card figures worked a few inches from the edge of the cloth in reds and blacks alternately, using a heavy linen thread and an outline stitch. If preferred, the decoration could be stencil work. Ribbons are sewed at the four corners to tie to the table.

A prize given at a card party recently was very novel. It was a white organdie turnback collar fitted with pointed cravat ends, embroidered with the figures of the cards in miniature worked solid, in reds and blacks. The outlines were so perfect as to resemble printing rather than hand embroidery. The needlework appeared in the corners of the collar and upon the ends of the cravat, and the whole thing was very much admired.

Not every hostess is sufficiently skilful to give a prize of this kind of her own handwork, but a linen case for holding two packs of cards should not be difficult to make. A long strip of linen a little deeper than the long side of a card is lined with a soft silk and then brought together to form two pockets. A binding of red ribbon is sewed to the edges. When the cards are slipped in, the case is folded and the upper side decorated as desired.

Another simple prize might be a very fine sheer linen handkerchief hemstitched and decorated in the corners with the four aces. This handkerchief should be kept for card parties exclusively.

A shaving pad is another suggestion. This could be a round of tan linen bound with red, the decoration four miniature cards outlined on the linen with a fine gilt thread, and an ace worked in each in the correct colorings. The cards should be apparently scattered over the surface of the shaving case. A bit of ribbon passed through a ring and sewed to the linen furnishes the hanger.

Then there is the idea of a dainty apron in organdie decorated with mock cards worked in with fast cotton or washable silks. This would be a novelty if worn by a hostess serving tea or a luncheon at a card party.

One dozen small tea napkins displaying one of the card figures in each corner would be a really handsome prize, and not cost very much, after all. The napkins would be kept for card parties only, of course.

Fashion Hint.

A white chiffon dancing dress has flying bands of black velvet hanging from the waist and held down around the foot by roses.

The tunic must be edged with a trimming to correspond with the trimming of the waist.

There is a decided fancy for crepe de chine in lingerie, the pale colors being most favored.

Square frames are seen in the new handbags, and some handbags are melon shape.

Scallops appear in every piece of feminine apparel, and now even hats are scalloped.

Would You Lose Flesh?

Then eat—
Good olives.
Fresh fish, if boiled.
Eggs on toast, boiled or poached.
Farinaceous—Dry toast or stale bread, sparingly.

Meats—Mutton or lamb, beef, chicken and game; sparingly, and no fat.
Vegetables—Radishes, cabbage, spinach, lettuce, celery, onions, asparagus, watercress, tomatoes and cauliflower.

Liquids—One glass of water or one cup of coffee or tea without cream or sugar, sipped slowly after meals.

When Choosing Rugs.

When buying rugs, remember that a dark rug shows dust and lint, and a green fades to a dirty color. Usually the best rugs have small patterns, whereas cheap fabrics have big, bold designs. Tan shades wear well and some reds are lasting. Blue rugs are suitable for bedrooms, and red, brown and mixed colors for halls.

Flaring Cuffs.

Some of the coats are made with tight, very long sleeves, that are almost glove-like in their fit at the wrists. But some are made with flaring cuffs, like a model collar at the wrong place. These deep, flaring cuffs, usually on velvet coats, are headed with bands of velvet.

Window Draperies.

Curtain nets are woven in patterns after the various "periods," so that one need not hang Colonial curtains with Jacobean furniture or Queen Anne patterns in a Louis Quatorze drawing room.

Stops That Itch.

Large Crowds.

Harlan was filled with people Tuesday to hear Senator J. C. W. Beckham and Judge E. C. O'Rear speak in behalf of the submission of the State-wide amendment to the Constitution. The crowd was so large that they were requested to speak outdoors, but they declined to do so, and spoke in the Circuit Court room, which was jammed. Many could not get in. They were introduced by W. W. Duffell. Judge O'Rear spoke first and was followed by Senator Beckham. They spoke at London Wednesday.

THE CHURCH AS A SOCIAL CENTER

A Broader Sphere for Religion—New Field for the Rural Church.

By Peter Radford

Lecturer National Farmers' Union

The social duty of the rural church is as much a part of its obligations as its spiritual side. In expressing its social interest, the modern rural church does not hesitate to claim that it is expressing a true religious instinct and the old-time idea that the social instincts should be starved while the spiritual nature was overfed with solid theological food, is fast giving way to a broader interpretation of the functions of true religion. We take our place in the succession of those who have sought to make the world a fit habitation for the children of man when we seek to study and understand the social duty of the rural church. The true social religion is essentially social—its tenets of faith being love and brotherhood and fellowship. While following after righteousness, the church must challenge and seek to reform that social order in which moral life is expressed. While cherishing ideals of service, the rural church which attains the fullest measure of success is that which enriches as many lives as it can touch, and in no way can the church come in as close contact with its members as through the avenue of social functions.

The country town and the rural community need a social center. The church need offer no apology for its ambition to fill this need in the community, if an understanding of its mission brings this purpose into clear consciousness. The structure of a rural community is exceedingly complex; it contains many social groups, each of which has its own center, but there are many localities which have but one church and although such a church cannot command the interest of all the people, it is relieved from the embarrassment of religiously divided communities.

Social Needs Imperative.

The average country boy and girl have very little opportunity for real enjoyment, and have, as a rule, a vague conception of the meaning of pleasure and recreation. It is to fill this void in the lives of country youth that the rural church has risen to the necessity of providing entertainment, as well as instruction, to its membership among the young. The children and young people of the church should meet when religion is not even mentioned. It has been found safest for them to meet frequently under the direction and care of the church. To send them into the world with no social training exposes them to grave perils and to try to keep them out of the world with no social privileges is sheer folly. There is a social nature to both old and young, but the social requirements of the young are imperative. The church must provide directly or indirectly some modern equivalent for the husking bee, the quilting bee and the singing schools of the old days. In one way or another the social needs of our young people must have opportunity for expression, which may take the form of clubs, parties, picnics or other forms of amusement. One thing is certain, and that is that the church cannot take away the dance, the card party and the theatre unless it can offer in its place a satisfying substitute in the form of more pleasing recreation.

Universal Instinct for Play.

In providing for enjoyment the church uses one of the greatest methods by which human society has developed. Association is never secure until it is pleasurable; in play the instinctive aversion of one person for another is overcome and the social mood is fostered. Play is the chief educational agency in rural communities and in the play-day of human childhood social sympathy and social habits are evolved. As individuals come together in social gatherings, their viewpoint is broadened, their ideals are lifted and finally they constitute a cultured and refined society. It is plain, therefore, that the church which aims at a perfected society must use in a refined and exalted way the essential factors in social evolution and must avail itself of the universal instinct for play. If the church surrounds itself with social functions which appeal to the young among its membership, it will fill a large part of the lamentable gap in rural pleasures and will reap the richest reward by promoting a higher and better type of manhood and womanhood.

It is customary to promote a deputy who has given satisfaction in office. Mr. James W. Wagers has been an accommodating, polite agreeable and efficient deputy Circuit Court Clerk. adv. 10-11
